REFLECTIONS

On the surface of a swift-flowing stream the reflections of things near or far are always indistinct; even if the water is clear and has no foam, reflections in the constant stream of ripples, the restless kaleidoscope of water, are still uncertain, vague, incomprehensible.

Only when the water has flowed down river after river and reaches a broad, calm estuary or comes to rest in some backwater or a small, still lake—only then can we see in its mirrowlike smoothness every leaf of a tree on the bank, every wisp of a cloud, and the deep blue expanse of the sky.

It is the same with our lives. If so far we have been unable to see clearly or to reflect the eternal lineaments of truth, is it not because we too are still moving towards some end—because we are still alive?

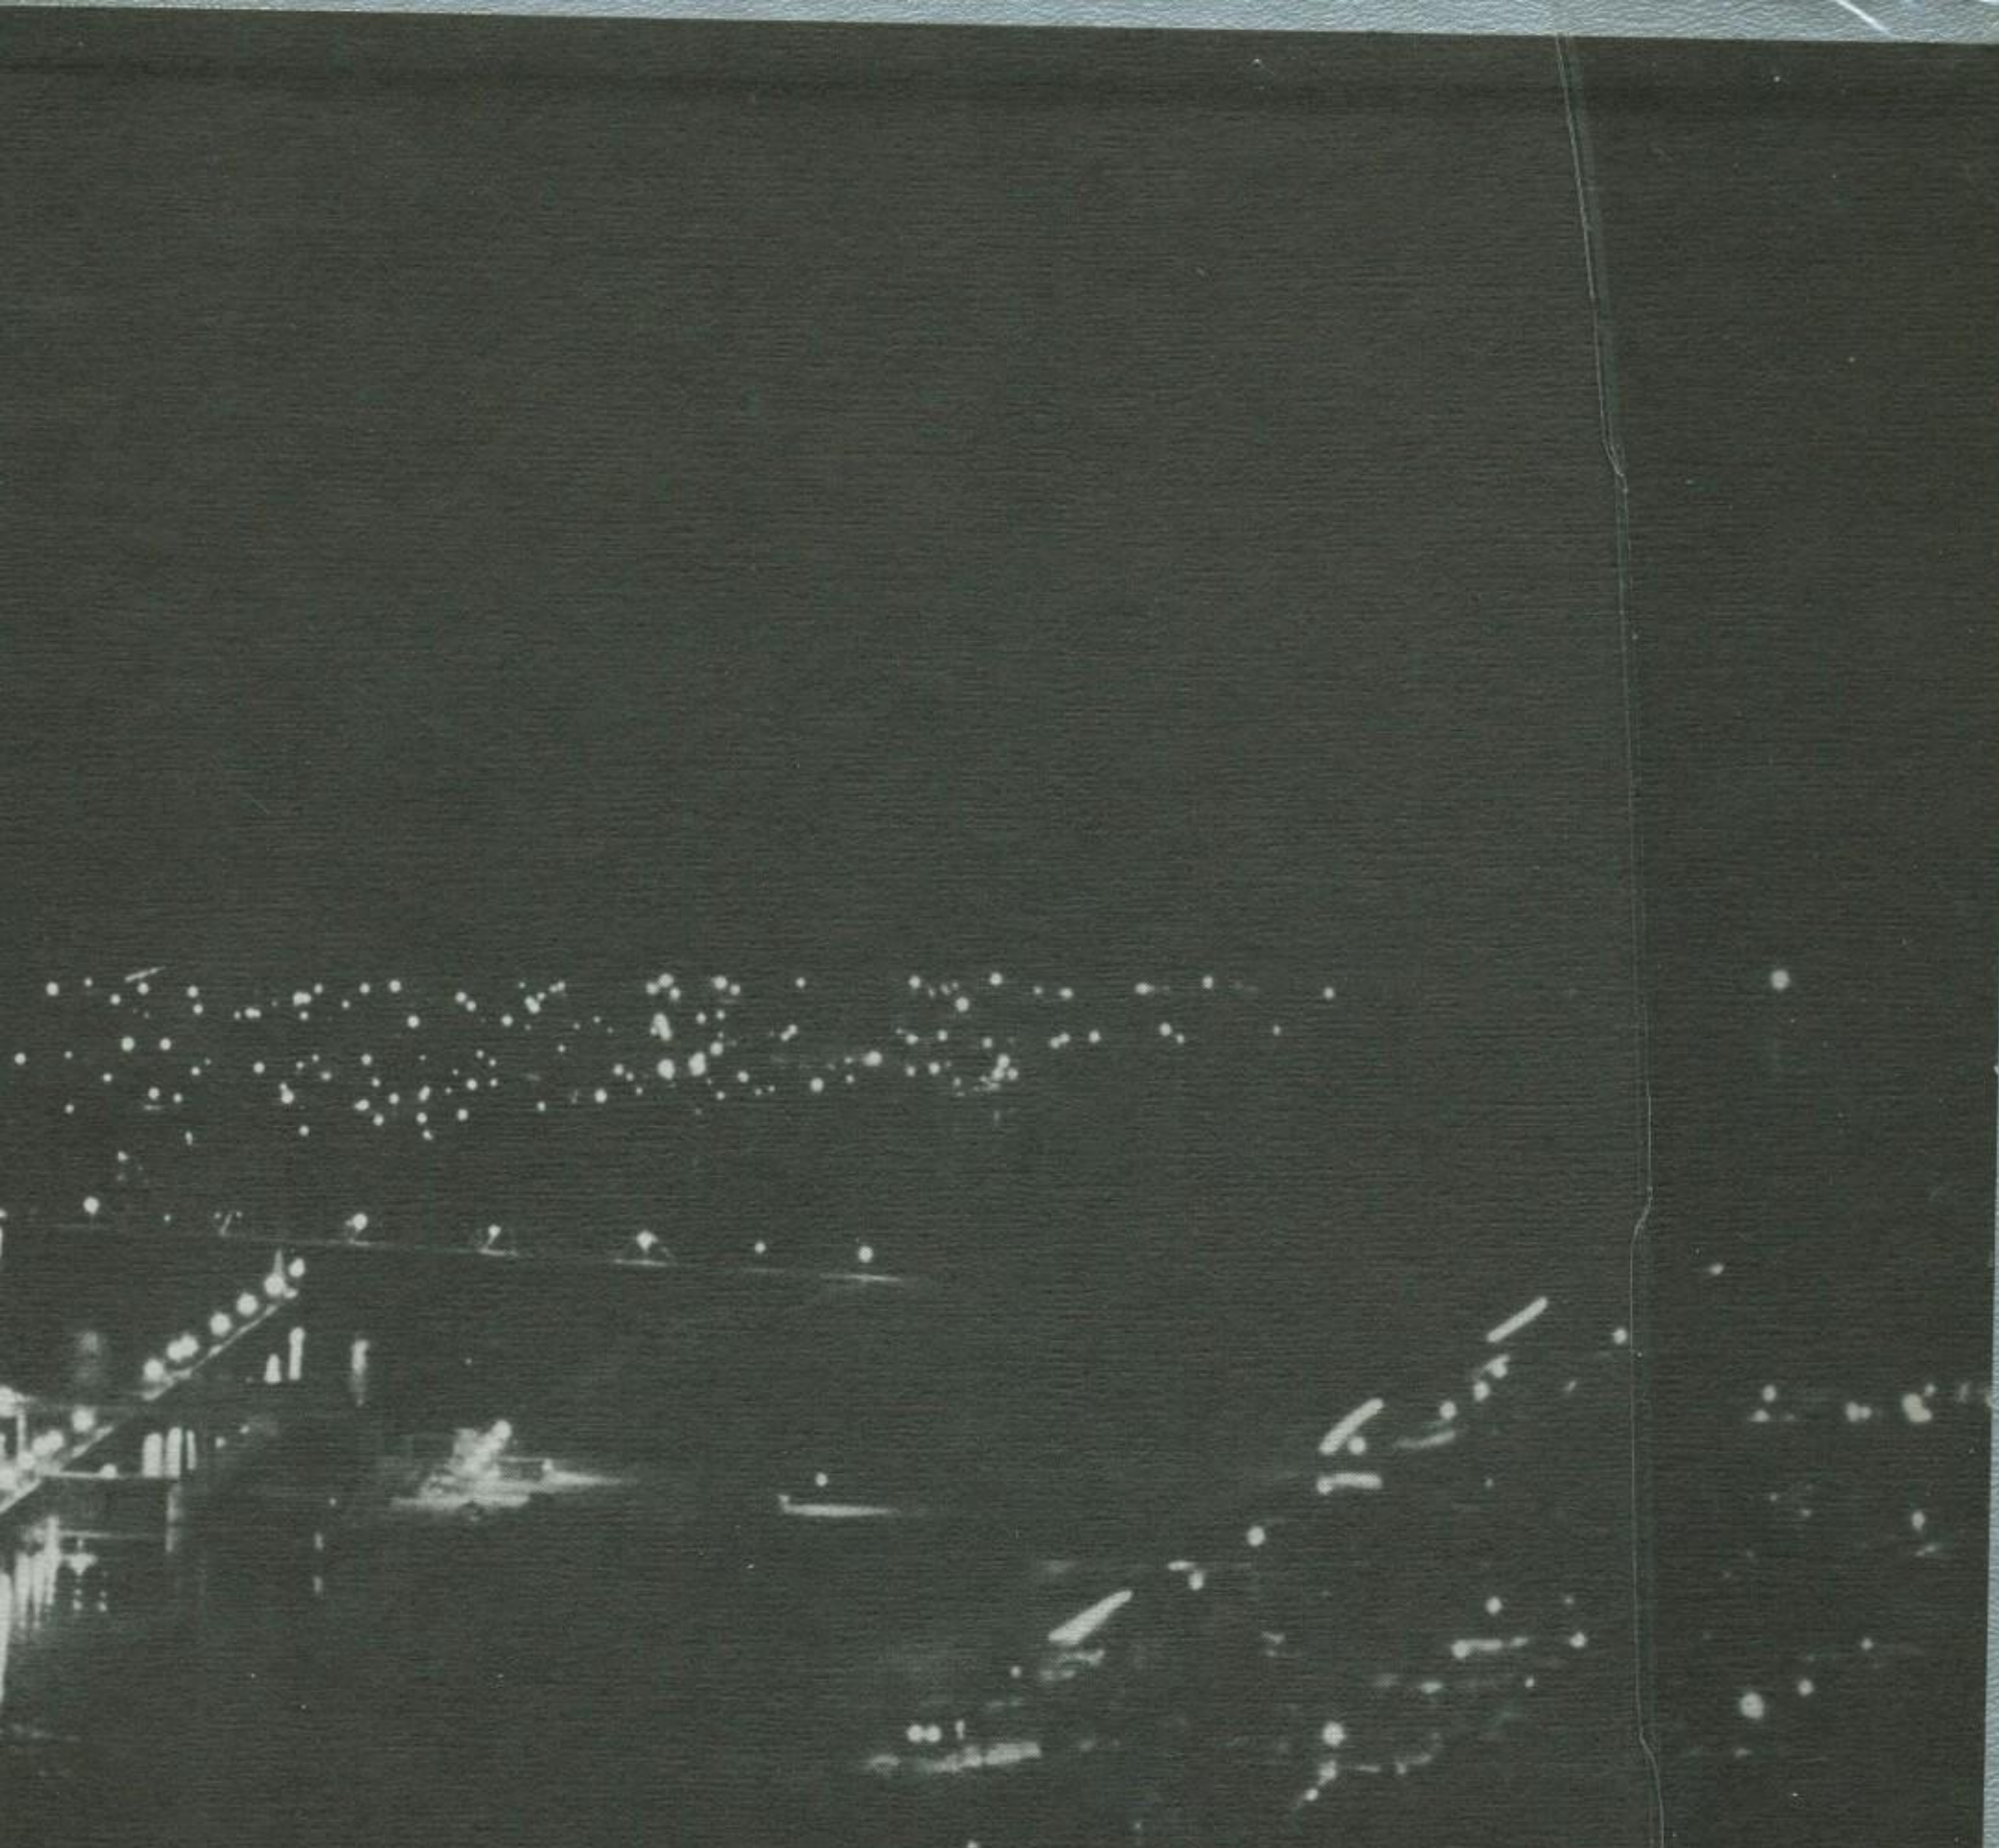
THE SUNSHINE AND SHADOWS OF "75"

Looking backwards we try to recall
Some of the things we said or saw
Spoken words such as "Haunts for Hire. May I help you?"
Or "I wish I didn't have so much homework to do."
Dressing up as a character of a commercial or cartoon
Supporting the team by carrying a balloon
Watching the antics of cheerleaders in pep rally skits
Counting the number of baseball game hits.
Watching the final touchdown run through
Enjoying a soccer game in phys. ed. II.
Going to class or just roaming the hall
Screaming and cheering a close game of basketball.
Singing in chorus, painting and sculpturing in art.
Participating in clubs, trying to do our part.
Listening to pronunciations in English and French
Or, in shop, handing the guy the wrong wrench.
The cramming and panicking before an exam
The windy, walking fieldtrip we took to the dam.
The wrestling matches, track meets, and golf games
The talent shows that were never the same.
The unforgetable experiences of the prom
The serious banquets that were never quite calm.
The locker room decorating and celebrations
The dances held to good vibrations
The volleyball battles held over a net
The programs filled with worry and fret
Clowning and joking to get a laugh
Working on newspaper or yearbook staff.
Trying to make our memories last,
As we look on the mirror of the past.
All has been a part of the reflections in our lives
The sunshine and shadows of "75"

—Kim Crawford



REFLECTIONS

On the surface of a swift-flowing stream the reflections of things near or far are always indistinct; even if the water is clear and has no foam, reflections in the constant stream of ripples, the restless kaleidoscope of water, are still uncertain, vague, incomprehensible.

Only when the water has flowed down river after river and reaches a broad, calm estuary or comes to rest in some backwater or a small, still lake—only then can we see in its mirrowlike smoothness every leaf of a tree on the bank, every wisp of a cloud, and the deep blue expanse of the sky.

It is the same with our lives. If so far we have been unable to see clearly or to reflect the eternal lineaments of truth, is it not because we too are still moving towards some end—because we are still alive?
